Subject: Upcoming Marketing Campaigns

As you know, the launch of our two new bath products, lavender soap and bath oil, was delayed by three months. This delay, coupled with an operating cost increase of 11.3%, has presented a challenge to our company.

To meet this challenge, we have committed to an aggressive marketing plan focused on our direct-to-consumer sales. Advertising, public relations, and e-commerce will be the primary initiatives used to grow this sales channel. Conservative projections show that this sales channel could contribute 20-30% in revenue over the coming year, rising to as much as 40% in the 2025-26 fiscal year when our skincare line is launched.

We ask each of you to review the upcoming marketing campaigns with your teams and be ready to present your ideas at our next meeting. It is critical that we get this plan right.
